

Day Camps

True learning occurs when students go through experiences. The learning has more meaning, is more relevant, and tends to stay with the students for a longer period of time. Give your kids the opportunity to experience their learning! Rather than sit inside a classroom and do worksheets, kids explore the city and interact with the content. Students will learn concepts such as linear equations, slope, unit rate, reading comprehension and analysis, eco-system, velocity and acceleration, economics, modern government, historical references and so much more. The week is packed with learning opportunities that cannot be simulated inside a classroom.
